cheats 07.02.2017 The Wonders of the Ancient World : The Great Pyramids of Giza, the Hanging Gardens of Babylon, the Statue of Zeus at Olympia, and more. These wonderful, amazing things have all been found in some of the most breathtaking places in the world. Their locations and interiors make them some of the most iconic locations on Earth, and every guide book and tourist has a chapter or two about them. The location of many of these places is also a tourist attraction in their own right. The Hanging Gardens Of Babylon, for example, which were built around 2500 BC, are still around to this day, and today attract tens of thousands of tourists to visit them, but in ancient Babylon it was also the location of the infamous Castle of King Nebuchadnezzar. The archaeological site is still open for the public to visit, but only during the day. At night, it is closed. The entire archaeological site sits on a small hill, surrounded by a trench containing a moat. The wall of the trench was rebuilt in the nineteenth century, and today it stands up to 13 metres high and is completely lined with stone. The Castle of King Nebuchadnezzar still stands today and has a history all its own. When the city fell, the entire population was slaughtered, but not before King Nebuchadnezzar ordered his army to build a huge wall around the city and prevent anyone from escaping. At this point the city itself was besieged, but the King built an enormous palace on a hill about 2 kilometres from the city walls, which was also surrounded by a moat. The city walls themselves were never rebuilt. Both of these locations, and many other amazing, historic places, were discovered by accident. Archaeologists came across them by chance, while searching for something else entirely. When they found these amazing sites they knew the story behind them, but they didn't know it until they actually found them. They were never on any top ten lists or featured in any tourist guides, but now they are some of the most famous places on Earth. The Wonders of the Ancient World - A History of Archaeology These places are really quite amazing. They have seen hundreds of years of human history, and even tens of thousands of years. They have seen the rise and fall of civilisations and the rise and fall of empires. The Great Wall of China was built around 2200 BC. The pyramids of Giza 82157476af
